

Dear Homeowner,

The team here at Classic Metal Roofing Systems is so pleased that you are considering our product for your home. We understand that you may be concerned that you will have full warranty coverage when your home sits on or near the coast of a salt water environment.

You will be happy to know that a Classic Metal Roof has NO exclusions for salt water environments. You and future owners of your home will receive the full value and benefits of your roof warranty from us. I do not think you will find this to be the case with many other metal roofs due to their lower quality levels.

We can offer such a strong warranty with confidence because the aluminum alloy and Kynar finishes we specify in the production of our products have been lab tested and proven for all environments from driving rain to harsh sun to salt air and spray. Again, this should come as great comfort to you, considering that many other roofing products have reduced warranties near the coast, or even no warranty at all.

Thank you again for your consideration of our products. We are anxious to work hard in order to gain and maintain your confidence. Please contact me anytime I might be of service.

Sincerely,

Todd Miller
President
